Message from the President

Kyoto University Alumni (KUA) was established in November 2006 to facilitate exchange and cooperation between members of the University's numerous alumni associations, as well as to contribute to the institution's development.

KUA is an umbrella organization for the University's faculty, graduate school, club, circle, and regional alumni associations. The domestic organizations span the length of Japan, from Hokkaido in the north to Okinawa in the south, while the overseas associations span the globe from Southeast Asia to North America, South America, Europe, Australia, and Africa. I hope to see even more alumni associations established both in Japan and abroad.

For 120 years since its establishment as Japan's second imperial university, Kyoto University has fostered a distinctive culture of academic freedom that is unconstrained by convention, while cultivating talented individuals with the creativity and practical skills required to play leading roles in diverse fields. The University is also one of Japan's foremost research institutions, having produced more Noble Prize laureates and Fields Medalists than any other university in Asia.

I hope that Kyoto University will continue to be the home of creative and innovative research, one that inspires a sense of hope and anticipation, and be a source of enduring pride for students and graduates.

KUA makes it possible for alumni to maintain links not only with the University as a whole, but also with specific faculties, graduate schools, regions, network associations, clubs, and circles. I encourage all graduates to take advantage of these opportunities to find connections that transcend differences and enrich their lives.

I ask for your continued support of KUA and its activities.

Nagahiro Minato

President, Kyoto University Alumni

President, Kyoto University

What is Kyoto University Alumni?

Since its establishment as one of Japan's imperial universities at the end of the 19th century, Kyoto University's faculties and graduate schools have organized their own alumni associations. While those groups have always been very active, there was no overarching association for the entire university until the establishment of Kyoto University Alumni in November 2006. The association serves to loosely connect the departmental and other associations in order to contribute to the development of the university as a whole.

Members of departmental and regional associations etc. that are registered with Kyoto University Alumni are also automatically Kyoto University Alumni members.

Kyoto University Alumni: An Expanding and Deepening Network

Kyoto University Alumni aims to promote exchange and friendship among its members, and contribute to the development of the university. The annual Kyoto University Homecoming Day provides alumni with an opportunity to return to their alma mater and reunite with old friends and acquaintances. Regional alumni associations in Japan and overseas promote member networking through lecture meetings, social gatherings, sports, and leisure activities.

Networking with Diverse Regional Alumni Associations

◀ Networking with regional alumni associations in Japan

Every year, many alumni associations hold general meetings and other events. At the request of the associations, university executives and faculty members attend such events to give lectures and updates on the latest developments at the university. At social gatherings, many alumni of diverse ages and former faculty affiliations can renew old friendships and cultivate new ones, as well as reaffirm their ties with the university, the alumni association, and each other.

▶ Networking between local communities, regional alumni associations in Japan, and Kyoto University

In conjunction with their alumni meetings, the Hiroshima Alumni and Fukuoka Alumni hold free public lectures by Kyoto University faculty members that are open to high school students and the general public as a way to contribute to the local community. Such events draw many participants every year, and demonstrate the value of the links not only between the university, alumni associations, and alumni themselves, but also with the local community.

◀ Networking between Kyoto University and regional alumni associations overseas

Kyoto University's overseas alumni associations are also very active. The university collaborates with several alumni associations in Southeast Asian countries to hold an annual forum with the aim of sharing its latest research achievements with the regional community. Over 100 researchers participate every year. The scope of participation is not limited to alumni association members, which helps the connections to expand even wider. In addition, university faculty and staff actively deepen interaction and friendship with overseas alumni by visiting the associations to provide updates on the university and alumni activities.

Homecoming Day

▶ Kyoto University Homecoming Day is held on the first Saturday of November every year. It provides an opportunity for alumni to deepen links not only among themselves, but also with local residents and all those with an interest in Kyoto University. It is an annual opportunity for alumni to deepen their links with former classmates and teachers, and it also provides an opportunity for the local community and general public to learn more about Kyoto University through various events, such as lectures, concerts, and facility tours. In recent years, it has been held as a hybrid in-person and online event.
